High School Fishing teams struggle to have a team mentality as fishing is inherently an individual sport. That makes it tough for student anglers to learn from each others experiences on the water.

Break down & learn waters together.

Tracking every detail of fishing trips improves fishing skills faster. Collaborate over trip details to compare which areas, baits, and techniques are working. Whether it's before or after a tournament, breaking down each teams trips will help each angler learn and improve!

It's difficult for coaches and parents to follow along with their anglers while they're on the water. Unlike other sports, the "playing field" can be miles from your location, making it tough to watch in real-time, see how they're doing and the decisions they're making.

Go Live and broadcast trips to any device for real time feedback, updates, and more.

With Go Live, it's easier than ever for coaches, parents, and friends to follow along with Student Anglers on the water! You'll be able to see their trip path, catches, and give them real-time feedback!

In each club, there are student anglers who are new to fishing and struggling to get the opportunity to learn from friends, the club, and their own fishing experiences on the water.

Stay up to date with your team!

Student anglers can add coaches and parents as friends in the app. Now, people who care about helping anglers improve can give feedback, help in decision making, and improve their catch performance. The learning curve shortens when you have the information and fellow anglers helping each other!
